

Jeder Quadratmeter zählt!

Die Ausgangslage:

Der Mensch hat das größte Artensterben seit rund 65 Mio Jahren verursacht (damals starben 75% aller Arten aus, u.a. die Dinosaurier). Flurbereinigung, Entwässerung, Begradigung von Flüssen, Grünlandumbruch, die Industrialisierung der Landwirtschaft und wachsende Siedlungs- und Verkehrsflächen zerstören natürliche Lebensräume. Der Klimawandel, Umweltverschmutzung und eingeschleppte invasive Arten verstärken das Artensterben zusätzlich.

Das Problem:

Der Mensch ist Teil des natürlichen Systems und direkt abhängig von den sog. Ökosystemdienstleistungen, wie atembare Luft, trinkbarem Wasser, fruchtbaren Böden, Bestäubung von Nutzpflanzen, Medizin, Ressourcen usw. Dabei sind Tiere und Pflanzen seit Jahrtausenden eingespielt und voneinander abhängig.

Jeder kann (sollte) was tun:

Darum muss jeder Quadratmeter Grün, Gärten und Balkone ökologisch wertvoll (und damit für uns nützlich) aufgewertet werden:

- keine Schädlingsbekämpfungsmittel
- keine mineralischen Dünger
- heimische Pflanzenarten!
- vielfältige Strukturen wie Trockensteinmauern, feuchte/nasse Senken, stehendes/liegendes Totholz, Sandflächen
- Naturbaumaterialien statt Beton & Kunststoff
- torffreie Erden nutzen!
- naturnahe Steingärten statt Schottergärten!
- Regenwasser statt Trinkwasser nutzen
